and his consort.

Prince Frederick William Louis was born on the 22d expectations and the grounds on which they are based, in connexion with the slight sketch of the Prince of Prussia and his consort.

Prince Frederick William Louis was born on the 22d of March, 1797, and is therefore now 60 years old, and is two years younger than the King, who was born on the 15th of October, 1795. The latter is, or rather was, possessed of a certain amount of genius, but much wanting in decision and firmness of character; while the former, though far less talented, has much more firmness, and is in every respect more reliable, than his elder brother. His wife, Marie Louise Augusta Catharine, born Princess of Weimar, was born on the 30th of September, 1811, is a lady of remarkable ability and most attractive manners, and in these respects has always placed the Queen very much in the shade. She exercises a very considerable influence over her husband, and will consequently, it is hoped, use it now to produce the adoption of advantageous reforms during her husband's government. She was never popular at court, and lived at Coblenz in a sort of banishment, where she has acquired great popularity by her anability and kindness; and it is inferred from this that she will pursue the exactly opposite course to that hither-to pursued at court.

Although the Prince and Princess may not really be less absolutist in their feelings than the King, there is still every reason to believe, judging from past events, that they are sincerely attached to the constitutional party and the German question—that is, the general national interest of Germany—and that they will assert and protect these interests with greater energy and warmth than has hitherto been the case in Prussia. The Regent will endeavor, in the first place, to win the prominent position of advocate of German interests, which Austria has been nominated, to bring the question of the German Duchies of Holstein and Lauenburgh before the Diet, and to claim the support of Austria in Germany that she has more German under her rule than other. Prussia has t tained that a general amnesty for political offenders will be soon proclaimed.

However these hopes may be fulfilled, wholly or in part, there is good reason to anticipate that Frussia will assert herself with more vigor and energy in questions of European interest; that she will assume the position to which she is entitled, and be more respectfully and more frequently mentioned abroad than heretofore.

LORD PALMERSTON ON THE INDIAN MUTINY. At a banquet given by the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs of

At a banquet given by the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs of London, Lord Palmerston delivered a speech on the Indian mutinies, of which the following is the conclusion:

"But, my Lord Mayor, white we do justice to the great heroism of our countrymen in India, we must not forget that person who, by his exalted position, atanda at the head of our countrymen there—I mean the governor general. Lord Caminig has shown throughout the greatest courage, the greatest ability, and the greatest resources: and, from the cordiality which exists between him, as head of the civil service, and Sir Colin Campbell, as head of the military service, we may be sure that everything which the combined experience of both can accomplish will be effected for the advantage of the country. The task of Lord Caming will be indeed a difficult one. He will have to punish the guilty adequately exceeds the power of any civilized man; for the atrocities which have been committed are such as to be imagined and perpetrated only by demons sallying forth from the lowest depths of hell. But punishment must be inflicted, [cheers,] not only in a spirit of vangeance, but in a spirit of security, in order that the example of punished crime may deter from a repetition of the offence, and in order to insure the safety of our countrymen and countrywomen in India for the future. [Cheers.] He will have to spare the innocent, and it is most grantifying to know that, while the guilty may be counted by thousands, the innocent must be reckened by millions. It is most grantifying to su s and honorable to the people that the great bulk of the population have had no share in the enormities and crimes which have been committed. They have experienced the blessings of British rule, and they have been enabled to compare it with the tyranny exercised over them by their native chiefs. They have had the run my are they both high and low, who have not only abstained from taking part in this mutiny, but who have mented recongence of the privany of their native rulers, have been most

OF THE LOST AND SAVED.

On the arrival of the Opelousas railroad train last evening we learned from rumor that there had been a collision on Sunday night between the steamer Opelousas, Captain Ellis, which left Berwick's bay on Sunday, and the Galveston, Captain Washburn, of the same line, coming from Galveston and Indianola to Berwick's bay, nd that there were several lives lost.

The most authentic shape in which we have been to obtain intelligence of the important event has been Galveston, which we append. It will be seen that among the passengers lost by this occurrence was Gen. James Hamilton, of South Carolina:

ON BOARD STRANSHIP GALVESTON,
November 17, 1857.

Editors of Picagana:

GESTEROEN: At 12 o'clock (midnight) the 15th inst. the steamship Galveston came in contact with the steamship Opelousas, striking the Opelousas nearly amidship, causing her to sink in about twenty minutes. The Galveston, receiving but little damage, laid by her till daylight this morning, and succeeded in saving the following passengers, and all of the officers and crew.

Yours respectfully

Clerk Steamship Galveston.

Officers and crew (27) all saved.
These are all the particulars we had been able to gather authentically up to midnight, (last night.) In our next we shall doubtless be in possession of more.

In the evening edition of the Picayone we find the fol-we shall doubtless be in possession of more.

In the evening edition of the Picayane we find the following additional particulars:

We gather but few more particulars in relation to this unfortunate affair than those published this morning.

We find on the passenger list of the Opelousas (the lost steamer) the following names, not included in the published lists of the saved and lost. We fear that they must be included among the latter:

Mr. H. Trainer, Mr. G. Harney, Mr. E. Hill, Mr. A. J. Hollis, Mr. Wyeth and lady.

We understand that Capt. Washburn, of the Galveston, being sick at Galveston, was not on board his steamer at the time of the disaster. The officer in command of the Galvestou at the time was Capt. Jere. Smith.

We have been graftified to learn from his own lips that Mr. A. J. Voorhies, of Princeton, New Jersey, reported lost, is among the saved from the fill-fated Opelousas. Mr. V. was arroate to the interior of the State on business, but, having lost all his money, has turned his face homeward again.

All of those who were rescued from the slnking steamer of course saved nothing from the fatal wreck, and were brought to the city without money, clothing, or anything else. Several of them are at the City and Arrade Hotels, where they are receiving the greatest kindness at the hands of Mr. Morse, his family, and assistants, (who are always prompt in deeds of philanthropy and hospitality,) and where, we are pleased to learn, subscriptions for the relief of the unfortunate sufferers have been opened, and are receiving the signatures of the sympathizing and the charitable.

There are now in New Bedford, Massachusetts, 23

tice of the "Crawford pediment" for the Capitol Exten-sion is from a recent number of the London Athenseum.

Crawford is no more, and the visitors who gaze with admiration at his works can say, in the language of the legend upon the tomb of Sir Christopher Wren, in St. Paul's Cathedral: "Lector si monumentum requiris circumpier." "If you seek his monument, look around."

"The pediment for the Capitol at Washington, which memorializes the progress of civilization in America, is seventy-two feet long and eight feet high. In the centre is a figure of America of heroic size, her feet on a wavebeaten rock—the sun behind her; one hand is outstretched, the other holds two crowns; on each side are six figures carved and draped from the life; the backwoodsman with his hatchet hewing the tree about to fall; a snake is darting out defiantly; then follows an Indian group—dying chief, squaw and pappose, and red men squatting around, and we pass on to warrior figures, sword in hand, emblematic of the revolution. A merchant prince scated on a bale, turning over a globe, illustrates a later historic period. A pair of school-boys, arm in arm, eyes elate and limes full of action; and last the stalwart mechanic, reclining on the emblem of transatlantic restlessness and rapidity—the wheel."

Financial.

New York, Nov. 23.—Stocks closed buoyant here to-day, at a considerable advance. Moncy is too plentiful for the adverse foreign accounts to have any material effect. The demand for western stocks was very brisk. The bank statement shows the specie line to be over $23,000,000, but the actual amount is not less than $25,000,000. Sterling is advancing.

New York, Nov. 24.—Stocks are lower generally. Chicago and Rock Island, $2; Cumberland Coal Company, 11½; Illinois Central starcs, $2; do. bonds, $7; Michigan Southern, 20; New York Central, 78½; Pennsylvania Coal Company, 61½; Reading, 57½; Missouri 6's, 79.

Burning of a Steamer .- Seventy Lives Lost. Cincinnati, Nov. 23.—The steamer Rainbow was burnt on the morning of the 21st inst., when ten miles above Napoleou, Arkansas. From fifty to seventy lives were lost, including all the officers. The boat, cargo, books, and papers are a total loss.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 24.—The steamer Rainbow had 347 passengers, 75 of whom are supposed to be lost. The principal part of the deck passengers and the officers of the boat were saved. The fire is attributed to an incendiary. The boat was run ashore, and there burnt to the water's edge.

The steamer Minnesota brought the rescued to Memphis. The books of the Rainbow were destroyed, and there has been no list of the lost furnished.

Pririsumo, Nov. 23.—The supreme court has affirmed the action of the criminal court in the case of Charlotte Jones, Henry Fife, and Monroe Steuart, the McKeesport murderers, under sentence of death.

A collision occurred this merning on the Connellsville railroad, by which Mr. Scott, of Westmoreland, was, as is supposed, fatally injured. The cars were crushed to misces.

Sr. Louis, Nov. 23.—Gov. Walker, of Kansas, is here en route for Washington. There is nothing new from Kansas.
